General Accounting Office, 2002 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)54466637 Subject: Earned income tax credit -- United States. Excerpt: . . . taxpayers adopted child, grandchild, stepchild, or foster child - all of whom meet the definition of an EIC qualifying child. For example, as described by one examiner, a grandmother raising a grandchild with a different last name would have to prove her relationship to the child's parents. Some examiners we interviewed said that they would accept various official documents that established the relationship requirement between a nonparental taxpayer and the EIC-qualifying child. The official documents they mentioned included birth certificates of the various parties, an adoption paper, some social programs paperwork that states the relationship between child and taxpayer, or some insurance or medical record that states the relationship. None of these documents is mentioned on the Form 886-R. Although an examiner may eventually obtain the necessary documentation through follow-up correspondence with the taxpayer, the need for additional correspondence leads to extra work for examiners and taxpayers and can lengthen the time needed to close the audit and pay the EIC, if the taxpayer is found eligible. Census Bureau statistics provide an indication of the prevalence of nontraditional family units. According to 1997 Census Bureau statistics, there were 3.9 million children living in homes maintained by their grandparents. Of this number, 1.27 million lived with their grandparents without the presence of either parent, 1.77 million had only a mother present, 0.57 million had both parents present, and 0.28 million had only a father present. According to Census Bureau statistics, the greatest growth between 1992 and 1997 occurred among grandchildren living with grandparents with no...
